Slick, seamless and responsive websites with X factor.

Experience + expertise.

Responsive websites that function with excellence.

Why Marx?

At Marx, we develop websites from concept through to completion. The end result not only looks great, but functions seamlessly across all platforms.

Our 'website designs' and 'development builds' are all managed internally and are designed exclusively by our team to ensure quality assurance and brand consistency is maintained at the highest level.

Our websites are custom-built using either the latest WordPress themes or SquareSpace templates, allowing clients to take ownership of the finished site for content updates and on-going edits.

With a wealth of experience in designing, building and launching new websites, we guarantee your site will look and function as it should across all mobile devices, changing and re-shaping to fit each device.

Affordable, stylish and contemporary designs.

The latest in web design and development.

1. Discovery & Planning

Our first step is to thoroughly understand your business and the intentions of the website. We offer a free consultation to establish a benchmark for how your site should appear and function. We will discuss the navigation requirements to create a site map and quotation.

2. Content & Functionality

Once our quotation is approved and the engagement process completed, we would seek to obtain as much information and content as possible. This includes text, images, navigation and functionality requirements. We can then establish a timeline and start investigating the appropriate design/theme and functionality to suit your website.

3. Design & Layout

Based on the creative brief and information gathered in the discovery stage, we'll start designing the interface layouts in a static format. Design mock-ups are created as they would appear on a desktop machine, and presented for feedback.

4. Development & Programming

Using the approved layout, site map and content, the project then moves to the development stage. This is where the website comes to life. There is little client involvement at this stage, however a good portion of the timeline will be required for the development.

5. Totally Responsive

Our websites have full mobile and tablet support. Your site will look and function as it should across all mobile devices, changing and re-shaping to fit each device.

6. Domain, Hosting & Email Setup

We will either integrate with your existing domain and host provider, or make a provision for a new domain website address and hosting. We will also work with your IT contact to integrate your established emails if required.

7. Testing & Reviewing

Comprehensive testing is conducted during this stage to ensure the site is optimised across multiple browsers, screens and mobile devices and is performing as it should prior to launch.

8. Website Launch

Upon approval from the testing stage, the new website is then launched with no interruption to the current site if one exists. Our hand-over ensures that you own the website we build. We provide all log-in details and passwords for complete access and content management.

Planned, managed and executed on time and within budget.

Process + management.

Let's make our mark online together.
